The Indians themselves were worse provided than usual, game and fish having comparatively failed the year before. In one or two Indian villages in the extreme north, the Indians were found reduced to that state of hanger which led them to commence eating their boots. It must be remembered, however, that the Indian stemach is able to derive more natriment from a piece of old skin than the more delicate digestive organs of a white man

The little falls of Minnehaha, immortal zed by Longfellow, occur upon a good a zed creek, four miles south of Minneupolis and ten from St. Paul. The stream is a tributary of the Mississippi, reaching it from the west. Immediately above the falls, it is about lifty feet wile, and, at the present stage of water, less than a foot deep. The sheet of falling water is of about the same width, and has a perpendicular descent of sixty feet. The rock over which it passes extends on high dos lebow the falls, forming a seni circle. Doubtless the falls, at some former period, occurred further down the steem, and bave guidnally ret red as the rock was slowly worn away by the action of the water—the semi-circular shape arising from the fact that, at the point central to the ascade, the rock is constantly acted up on by the water, while points more remote from that center are reacted only occasionally to with in these facts. The little falls of Minnehaha, immo from that center are reached only occa-ionally, to wit: in times of freshet.

As a good deal has been said of the Taylor Farm difficulty, and our publication in regard to the matter, we have taken the trouble to thoroughly investigate the affair from the beginning, and lay better our readers the following facts as the result of our investigations. It appears that about eighteen months since a notice was served upon the negroes on this farm by Mr. James Norcom, then connected with the Freedmen's Ba-chies act, in the hands of the Common Conneil, but, as I am no lawyer, I may be mistaken, and besides, with case was entirely free from doubt, it is not my province to decide points of law.

In antic pation of the use of State grands in this election to sustain the appointments of the commissioners of registration, and of the city police on the other chand to custain the appointments of the common Council, I respectfully request instruct one what course I shall pursue to preserve the peace of the city.

After this, a day was appointed by the hureau officers in this vicinity to meet all the tenants of the lureau on the various farms, except the Taylor farm. This meeting teck place, and the negroes on a number of farms were ordered to leave the premises they occupied, and the farms were returned to their owners.

In September last Lieut, Murphy, Capt. ItePass, and Mr. Jones, a clerk in the Fredmou's Bureau, accompanied Mr. Norcom ou a visit to the farm. The negroes organized a meeting, and, us we stated in our report at the time, defied the authority of the officers, denied the right of the President to pardon Mr. Taylor, ridiculed Gen. Schofield, and reiterated their threats that they would descorer than leave the farm. The officers, inding them so violent and intro table, deemed it imprudent to remain longer, and accord any returned to this city, having accomplished nothing.
